

BLINDS ARE US: Commitment to Value and Community

“This area is a home décor hub for anyone accenting their home,” says Don Chohan of Blinds Are Us. His business’ Manitou Drive neighbourhood boasts many services that specialize in adding value to homes through design and décor. Don and Mary Chohan have been Kitchener’s window covering experts for 16 years. Their gallery showroom has over 600 drapery books and a broad selection of window coverings and shades from several suppliers. Window treatments from quality manufacturers such as Eclipse Shutters, Levolor, Sunglow and Hunter Douglas are just a few of the brand names you’ll find in this lively showroom. Keeping up-to-date with the latest design trends and being environmentally conscious are two key factors for the Chohan’s successful business. An example of this is a “Pure Screen” roller shade that actually cleans the air while hanging in your window. Or, the energy-efficient honeycomb shade – a unique look that will enhance any decor.

Blinds Are Us also knows the value a well-dressed window will give to a room.

They design and install elaborate and distinctive fabric window coverings as well as the popular “hard window fashions” such as blinds and shutters. Free, in-home consultations will turn a basic room with four walls into a special place uniquely yours. The helpful staff will guide your choice to achieve the desired effect that best complements your home’s character and your personality. “Our guaranteed work is also done at a price that makes redecorating worthwhile,” adds Don.

The offerings don’t end with a variety of window treatments. Blinds Are Us also carries an incredible lineup of unique home décor items including prints, mirrors, accent tables, lamps and seating. “We stock unique products that you won’t see at other places,” says Mary. “Our smaller accent pieces make wonderful hostess and housewarming gifts without spending a fortune as well.” Commitment to the community in which they do business is very important to Blinds Are Us. In conjunction with one of their suppliers, Blinds Are Us provides free window coverings for every home built by Habitat for Humanity in Waterloo Region.

At the heart of Blinds Are Us is great service and value for customers. It’s reflected in their commitment to staying on top of specialized information. To manage their huge selection of window treatment options, the staff receives regular training in order to offer the best and most up-to-date information to their customers. The Chohans pride themselves on their competitive prices, whether for custom window treatments or in-stock items such as ready-made grommet panel drapes at a third of the price of custom panels. “You might buy something off-the-shelf from a big box store and think you’re getting a deal, it’s not comparable at all,” says Don. Delivering quality and value takes the kind of knowledge that the team at Blinds Are Us can provide. Their commitment to value runs so deep, that they are the only blind and drapery establishment in the area that actually have a repair department on the premises. Be sure to drop by the 4,000-sq.ft. showroom – you’ll be pleasantly surprised!
